Careers at AEIOU

It's our people who set us apart and, as AEIOU grows, we continue to look for new team members who are committed to creating lifelong opportunities for children with autism.

What sets AEIOU apart

AEIOU Foundation is a leading provider of evidence-based early intervention for pre-school aged children with autism.

Our curriculum provides children individual programs which develop functional skills to facilitate independence, community inclusion and lifelong outcomes. The AEIOU Foundation program acknowledges the Australian Guidelines for Good Practice 2012 and has been developed on evidence-based practices, primarily the principles of behaviour analysis.

All centres operate with transdisciplinary teams including behaviour analysts, occupational therapists, speech and language pathologists, educators and learning facilitators.

Every child at AEIOU receives a minimum of 20 hours therapy per week as recommended in a report by Roberts, Williams, Smith & Campbell (2015), released by the NDIA in February 2016.

Our priority is to support the whole family throughout their child's program and provide them with regular training to acquire skills and tools required to achieve therapy goals in the home and the broader community.

Working as part of our transdisciplinary team

Transdisciplinary practice provides a unique working environment that fosters open communication and exchange of clinical knowledge to provide holistic planning and intervention for our children.

Within our centres, all staff are encouraged to share ideas and contribute to the collective knowledge as valued members. This collaboration between professionals, allows staff to learn new and exciting skills from other disciplines and therapists, and ensures we provide carefully considered and evidenced based intervention, addressing all aspects of a child's specific needs. AEIOU is proud to provide the unique opportunity for all staff to work alongside and collaborate with experts in their fields.
